IV. Grammar Notes

1. V た-form

Forms of verbs ending in た or だ are called their た-form. A verb's た-form is created by changing the て or で of its て-form to た or だ respectively. (See Exercise A1, Lesson 19 of Main Text.)

て-form → た-form
かいて → かいた
のんで → のんだ
たべて → たべた
きて → きた
して → した

2. V た-form ことがあります have the experience of V-ing

This sentence pattern is used to say what happened in the past as a particular experience.

① ^{うま}馬に ^の乗った ことがあります。 I've ridden a horse.

Note that the past tense is used when simply mentioning something that happened in the past.

② ^{きょねん}去年 ^{ほっかいどう}北海道で ^{うま}馬に ^の乗りました。 I rode a horse last year in Hokkaido.

3. V₁ た-form り、V₂ た-form り します V₁, V₂ and so on.....

As already explained, the particle や is used when citing two or more nouns as typical examples from a longer list. This sentence pattern is used when doing the same with verbs. The tense is shown at the end of the sentence.

③ ^{にちようび}日曜日は テニスをして、^{えいが}映画を ^み見たり します。

On Sundays, I play tennis, watch a film, and so on.

④ ^{にちようび}日曜日は テニスをして、^{えいが}映画を ^み見たり しました。

Last Sunday, I played tennis, watched a film and did some other stuff.

[Note] Be sure not to confuse this sentence pattern with the V₁ て-form、[V₂ て-form、] V₃ sentence pattern presented in Lesson 16, which is used to enumerate all the members of a list of two or more successive actions in their order of occurrence.

⑤ ^{にちようび}日曜日は テニスをして、^{えいが}映画を ^み見ました。

On Sunday, I played tennis and then watched a film.

Unlike with this sentence pattern, V₁ た-form り、V₂ た-form り します is used to enumerate a few typical actions from a longer list, indicating no time relationship between them. Because it is used to list actions non-exhaustively, it would be unnatural to use it for mentioning actions that everyone usually does every day, such as getting up in the morning, eating meals, and going to bed at night.

4.

い-adj(〜い) → 〜く な-adj[な] → 〜に Nに	}	なります

なります indicates a change of state.

- ⑥ 寒い → 寒く なります Get cold.
 ⑦ 元気[な] → 元気に なります Get better.
 ⑧ 25歳 → 25歳に なります Turn 25 [years old].
